LETTUCE from our Readers

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO CRACKED LETTUCE, 235 PARK AVENUE SOUTH, N.Y. N.Y. 10003

Dear CRACKED,
Do you often get really stupid letters?
Patty Ellington
Okeene, Oklahoma

Dear Patty,
Yes, quite frequently. Do you often write them?

Dear CRACKED,
How come you always give weird answers?

Ken Browne
Ambridge, Pa.

Dear Ken,
If we didn't, then all the questions wouldn't make sense, or not, sometimes.

Dear CRACKED,
Do you ever have trouble getting ideas for your great magazine?

Albert Landers
Freemont, Va.

Dear Albert,
We usually don't have trouble getting ideas, it's getting rid of them!

Dear CRACKED,
Did you know that if you spell your editor and publisher's name backwards it spells LOURPS?

Mary Kay
Kings Park, N.Y.

Dear Mary,
And did you know that if you spell OS TAHW backwards it spells SO WHAT?

Dear CRACKED,
Let's face it; IF TV COMMERCIALS WERE HONEST, there probably wouldn't be any left.

Joe Nash
Troy, Alabama

Dear Joe,
The same probably holds true for people.

Dear CRACKED Staff,
Just because I'm on vacation, don't think you can get away with anything!
The Accountant
Glasgow, Scotland

Dear Accountant,
Don't worry! (heh! heh!)
the CRACKED Staff

Dear CRACKED,
I really enjoy reading the "Lettuce Page" of your magazine. I would feel extremely privileged to have my name in such a great magazine.
Name withheld by request
Seattle, Wash.

Dear
Just how long have you been reading CRACKED?

Dear CRACKED,
Both of your articles on ROCKY and SILVERSTREAK were superb. I enjoyed reading them as much as I enjoyed watching those fantastic movies. I understand both films are coming out with sequels. Will you do sequels also?
Aubrey Roland
Fenwick, Conn.

Dear Aubrey,
Sure, we'll do the movie sequels if you do a letter sequel. Thanks!

Dear CRACKED,
You are no doubt of the opinion that people who write letters to magazines don't have anything better to do. Well, you're wrong!

Paul Jackson
Toronto, Can.

Dear Paul,
We can't always be right.

A SPECIAL MESSAGE FROM BOB SPROUL*

HERE'S $1.40

OUR ACCOUNTANT IS A TIGHTWAD!

For years I've been asking the accountant to give our subscribers a break. (Most other magazines sell money saving subscriptions.) He always stopped adding up figures just long enough to say "We can't afford it!"

Last week the old skinflint went on vacation, and I decided (heh! heh!) to put one over on him!

Now this is between us! (For gosh sakes, don't let moneybags find out!)

Until Stingy gets back from vacation, I am giving all new subscribers a $1.40 discount!

That's right! Our regular $5.40 rate is now only $4.00!

But hurry! He's due back soon, and he may never go on vacation again!

DEAR DIARY,

NOTHING MUCH IS HAPPENING. DOWN AT THE OFFICE, MIKE SHAPIRO STILL THINKS HE'S ROCKY EACH MORNING, HE COMES IN, SPARS WITH THE BOSS' SECRETARY, LIZA, AND THEN FEEDS THE TWO TURTLES HE'S RAISING IN THE WATER COOLER. THAT NEW GUY, GABE, THEN TELLS MIKE TO SHUT UP BECAUSE IT'S DISTURBING HIS DAY DREAMS ABOUT THE BLIND DATE HE HAS WITH A GIRL IN NEARBY NOME. SHAPIRO SAYS, "YOU, SHUT UP!" AND THE TWO MAKE EVEN MORE NOISE TRYING TO QUIET EACH OTHER DOWN. SEVEN PEOPLE ARE NOW WEARING EARMUFFS TO WORK BECAUSE OF THEM AND... OOOPS! HAFTA GO, THERE'S ANOTHER CRACKED TV. SATIRE READY TO ROLL. ENTITLED:

HAPPY DAZE

So you really like me Mary Beth?

Oh yes, Itchie. And if you went away to the same college as me, instead of Northwestern, we could be together even after high school ends.

It sounds great. But HAMBURGER UNIVERSITY—to major in hamburger engineering . . . ?

With a minor in creamy cole slaw—Itchie, it's the career of the future.

I'll have to think on that.

Oooh, Funzie—America's favorite high school drop out.

I beg your pardon! I got my diploma at night school if you recall.

Oh, that's right. Will you accept my apology?

ZIMMERMAN
Of course. Tonight! . . . 9:00 . . . My place!

Alley, what's this?

You ordered the blue plate special, didn't you?

YOU'VE GOT TO HAND IT TO VENUS DI MILO!

Howard, there's something I never quite understood about this show.

What's that?

Betty Lou, will you miss me when I go off to college?

When are you leaving, Ralf?

In the fall.

Oh!—Any chance of you going before that?

What's a nice, respectable, middle-aged couple like us doing in a malt shop every week?

Trying desperately to stay before the cameras as much as possible.

REPEAL THE 11TH COMMANDMENT!

Are you sure you can't go to the dance with me tomorrow night, Linda?

I'd love to Pots, but I just have to bathe my gerbil.

Oh.

Itchie, wash your hands for dinner. Your father will be here any minute.

Ma, I washed them yesterday.

But what about the germs dear?

I haven't got time. If they're dirty, they're just gonna have to wash themselves.

We're ruined! It's a catastrophe!

What's wrong Dad?

We went over the books today at the hardware store and sales are down 46%! Why?

I got it! Maybe it's because you sold 46% less stuff.

Shouldn't you be in bed?

That's all I ever hear. Yesterday I slept 23 hours.

Dinner's on the table everyone.

Maryanne! What you cooked—steaks!! We have to economize!!

PLUMBERS PLAN A HEAD!

I'm sorry Howard. I'll throw them away and make us a big bowl of water.

Dad, can I talk to you?

Is it important?

I think so. I've decided not to go to Northwestern, but instead to enroll at Hamburger University.

What is Hamburger University?

It's a very prestigious school operated by a major corporation.

It's really a fine school. Here's their brochure.

Just look at the fine courses they offer.

Ice making . . . lettuce shredding—Itchie, what prompted you to want to go here?

Well, there are many factors—the fine selection of trees they have on campus . . . the sesame seed covered buildings . . .

IBM?

McDonald's.

The ink's smearing.

No Dad—that's ketchup.

DAD! YOU'RE BREAKING MY CONCENTRATION

The fact that Mary Beth Wartwhistle is going there.

You're changing your whole life for a girl you don't even know!

Dad, Mary Beth and I have been heavy for quite some time.

It's probably from all the malteds the two of you drink after school.

WE'LL SHOW YOU HOW TO CATCH YOUR OWN BEEF!

Tomorrow's our 2 week anniversary.

O.K. everyone—water's on. Cup your hands.

Don't we even get a plate?

Plates cost money to wash Boney, and we're economizing.

LUTHER BURBANK PINCHED FRUITS

What's for dessert?

Cherries jubilee with brandied apples.

What! That's a $3.50 per person dessert!

Well, look. I gotta go. We have band practice tonight at Arnie's and Mary Beth's gonna be there. "I found my thr-ill..."

Bye. I have to go over to Ginny Piccaleni's house. She's gonna show me how to rope rattlesnakes.

Oh good. That'll come in handy when you start dating dear.

That doesn't make any sense.

Sorry, Howard! I'll throw that out too and make us some ketchup sundaes.

With a voice like that, how do they ever manage to get any jobs?

They don't. In 4 years all they've ever done is practice.

I know—nothing I'm ever given to say does.

Mrs. Cee, now that I have my high school diploma, I was wonderin' if maybe you'd help me redecorate my apartment so I'd look more educated.

Ah, Funz, forget decorating for a minute. Would you do me a favor?

Sure, Mr. Cee. Your kite caught in that tree again?

No, Funz. I'm worried about Itchie. He wants to go to H.U.!

And I hate you too, Mr. Cee.

QUASIMODO BELIEVED IN HUNCHES!

SPEAKING AT CROSS PURPOSES!

No jokes.

Could you talk to Itchie about going back to Northwestern?

Sure, Mr. Cee. But what if he doesn't listen to me?

Then punch him out!

Potsy, how come you're dressed in that track suit for band practice?

Itchie said we were going to run through a couple of numbers.

Hi guys. Gimmin' a minute to set up—Alley, throw a burger on for me.

Coming up.

How are things going between you and Betty Lou, Ralf?

Uneven. Sometimes we have a great afternoon and other days we fight like crazy.

What kind of day was it today?

Great. We didn't fight once.

How'd you manage that?

We didn't see each other.

At least you both have steady girls. Me, I'm getting desperate.

Who are you taking to the big dance tomorrow night?

My cousin Wendy.

It could be worse.

How? She's only 6.

WELL... THEY DO HAVE A DIFFERENT SOUND!

Here's your hamburger, Itch.

You call that a hamburger! I'll show you a real one. It's from my school catalogue.

That's the kind you like?

It's the best.

Well, O.K. . . .

... except I think it's gonna taste kinda papery.

Itchie, I wanna see you in my office.

Can't it wait? I got band practice.

You want me to wait—to take time away from my biggest date yet!

Who's it with?

The senior girls gym class.

Now I want you to stay right there while we talk.

Funz, I'm really uncomfortable.

WHIPASH IS A PAIN IN THE NECK!

Sorry, but all the best psychiatrists make their patients lie down while they discuss their problems.

O.K. What's up?

I heard that you're giving up your newspaper career for some chopped meat.

Itchie, there's more to life than two all beef patties and Mary Beth Wartwhistle.

Who told you?

You, the FUNZ, are telling me to dump a girl????

HELP! THE PARANOIDS ARE AFTER ME!

Just remember, women are not everything. A man's career is important too—how'd I get myself to say that?

BRING BACK TONG WARFARE!

And stop slumpin' when you stand.

What's my slumpin' got to do with anything?

Nothin', 'cept I promised your father I'd straighten you out.

OEDIPUS MOM

POUN WITH GRAFFITH! why? what's wrong wit ITALIANS?

MY NAME IS JESSIE I STEAL!

Hey! What's going on here?

Is that you Boney? We're cutting down on electrical costs.

What are you doing in there, Mom?

A jigsaw puzzle.

In the dark?!

It's more challenging this way—I can't cheat by looking at the picture on the box.

Who turned on the light—HOWWORD!!

That's wonderful—except how?

Maryanne, guess what! Business isn't terrible after all. We actually went up 79%.

It turns out my bookkeeper, Ming Sue, is Chinese and she was reading the books backwards.

DRACULA DIED IN VEIN!

So that means no more economizing.

Well, it looks like everything is back to normal again in our little home

Except for Itchie. He's still planning to go to the Sesame Seed Academy.

What?!

I been thinking it over and, well, there's a lot of good reasons not to go.

You realized hamburger engineering wasn't for you?

Well, that, and the fact that Mary Beth dumped me.

Thank goodness! Now we don't have to eat the baked newspaper Mom was making.

No he isn't

STAMP OUT MENTAL HEALTH

Oh poor Itchie

If you don't mind my being nosy, do you know who this Mary Beth dumped you for?

Yeah. Some big wig at M.U. who come to interview her. His name is Ronald Mc something or other.

Well, people are always changing, Itchie. You're going off to college and Boney's learning how to rope rattlesnakes and even Funzie got a diploma...

ABD MOVIE OF THE WEEK

Uh oh! What's the matter, Biff?

Our Rabbit won't start.

—And we're miles away from anything.

You know I can't walk with this sore finger.

Don't worry, my precious—I'll carry you.

You rang?

Excuse me, but could my wife and I use your phone? Our car battery went dead.

It obviously wasn't a Seers Diehard—the battery strong enough to start 8 African elephants in the snow.

This certainly is a roomy home. It's so deceiving from the outside.

Do you live here alone?

No

You're right. But then, I only own a teeny Rabbit and never thought I'd need that much power!

I share it with my ghoul friend.

Why don't you stay the night in our guest room upstairs.

Sid, there's something very strange about this place.

You're right—they look like terrible bridge players.

And that couple isn't exactly like our neighbors back home.

We stay the night and that's it!

Thank you
That's very kind

AAAAH!

He looks pretty ill, doesn't he?

Ill?—Biff he's dead!

That's pretty ill to me—Quick, let's shove him back into the closet and get out of here.

But Biff—look! There's water all over the floor from the fish tank I knocked over. They'll know we found the body.

Not if we clean it up.

What's gonna soak up that much water?

BOUNCY will! It's the quicker picker upper. Here. You use the other leading brand on that spill and I'll use my Bouncy.

Why, your's soaked up the water

In fact, it even sucked up the fish!

So, if you get out of here alive, what paper towel are you gonna buy?

Bouncy

Biff! The door is locked! How are we ever gonna get out of here?

I got it!—We spill another bowl of water and follow the Bouncy lady out.

But there's no more water. Biff! We're trapped

A speech bubble above him says "Cough—cough!". The scene is set outdoors with some foliage in the background.

And it is my contention, as a philosopher, that the silkworm thinks like the flutter goose because . . .

Why is the earth like a big shopping bag? Is it because it holds everything that . . .

Came the Dark Ages and we discover no pollution of any kind existed. However, we now believe the reason for this was . . .

. . . it was always too dark to see.

Lift the darkness, and this is what we believe was really going on.

With the arrival of the Renaissance, art proliferated and with it, a slight water pollution problem developed.

Time passed, with little changing, until the discovery of America. Now, with an abundance of space, the early pioneers began going crazy with development.

Of course, the Indians tried their best to control the pollution problem by eliminating its source.

And because untapped natural resources and wildlife were so readily available, these early settlers were wasteful with their

But still, with such a sparsely populated area, Mother Nature was able to keep things in order.

And then it happened.

Factories sprung up everywhere in the northeast, almost overnight.

And for those who didn't like it . . .

But, as people moved west, so did progress, in the form of new factories, trains and

And again, people kept moving west until . . .

Years went by with industrial growth going unchecked.

And Mother Nature was going berserk.

Early environmentalists, having little power, could only concentrate on cleaning smaller bodies of water.

What man didn't understand was that even though he couldn't see things like water pollution, it was still there.

Time passed and the problems worsened with nothing happening until the '60's. Suddenly, protesting was "in" and ecology became one of the issues.

Suddenly, everyone was turning to ecology. Rich people, with nothing better to do, searched for issues.

While, everyday people began protesting against new roads . .

Against water contamination

And even noise pollution

The 70's set upon us and we discovered along with other problems, we also had an oil shortage.

And what of the future? Well, some say that there's only one way out.

But there is another. With a little sense on people's parts and some help from technology that started this whole thing, one day you will be able to walk outside and

During the sequel to W.W. I, Marine Corp Major Greke "Poppycock" Boingington took a bunch of screwballs, misfits and grapes and molded them into a first-rate squadron that was to become the terror of the South Seas (and later Boise, Idaho) and who, some 30 years hence, would be glorified in a truly crummy TV program known as

BAAD BAAD BLACK SHEEP

Snap to attention you jokers. A new squadron is arriving to join us for a few days and I want all of you on your best behavior—Gunnerman. . . Cazey. . . put that stuff away!

But Poppycock, we're just a bunch of no good misfits and screwballs out for a good time.

A good time, Gunnerman? This is war! You think war is fun?

HEY, MAN!
WHAT TIME?
CHOW?

It is on M*A*S*H!

I want you to meet my squad. I hope your men will get along with them.

They seem eager enough to give it a try.

HUBBA
HUBBA

Major Lady to join Major Boingington.

Welcome to our . . . why, you're a woman!

That's a matter of opinion.

Enemy planes, Poppycock!

Where are they located, D.J.?

In the sky, sir!

Your squad really knows all the technical lingo, don't they?

And so it was to be my squadron and Major Lady's against the fierce Japanese air force.
I'll never forget that joint attack . . .

Boil—clarification on something we weren't taught in training.

Which ones are the Japanese planes?

Yes, Lieutenant.

Oh boy!

Hey, which one of you jokers put soap bubbles in my machine gun? Was that you, Gunnerman?

Are you sure this is historically accurate—women in combat?

D.J., every facet of this show, down to the tiniest prop has been exhaustively researched.

How come you're on a horse, Bruggit?

If it helped make my father a big star perhaps . . .

That's comforting—oh darn!

What's wrong?

My Vinnie Barbarino thermos was just hit.

Poppycock, I've been hit.

Report your damage.

Two shot off wings, a leaky fuselage and a flaming engine.

Be honest, Casey. Do you think it interferes with your completing the mission?

Ah, Major Lady, I know you don't want to be treated differently from us, but I have to tell you something.

What, Frenchie?

Those aren't bombs you're dropping—they're cotton balls!

Major, I'd like to talk with you—I don't want your men hanging around my squad anymore.

I think they're beginning to pick up the unruly habits of your men.

All right, Lieutenant, start talking.

You speak English?

Of course! You think our audience is intelligent enough to keep reading subtitles all evening.

ROOK! I FIND A RUBBER CHICKEN IN PARACHUTE!

But why Major Lady?

KICK ME

But enough chit chat. I want some American secrets.

Well, George Washington was really a lot shorter than he looks on the dollar and . . .

Stop! I want current secrets. Like where the American planes are . . . what types of ships you have . . . who does Eleanor Roosevelt's hair . . .

Never!!

Then let the torture begin!

I'm a little bit country . . .

And I'm a little bit rock 'n' roll

No! Anything—anything but continuous Donny and Marie!!

Micklon, are those rescue planes in flying order yet? I've got 3 lost sheep.

That's too BAAAAA-A-DDD, Poppycock. You're just gonna have to wait. I've a few more pieces to put in place.

And now I'd like to sing one of my favorite Lithuanian love songs, "Just Flashing My Teeth Over You."

I think I'm starting to crack.

Hold out Gunnerman.

I'll try—but if she does "Paper Roses," that's gonna be it.

I knew time was running out, so I begged Micklon to hurry with the plane.

Micklon, time is running out so I'm begging you to hurry with the plane.

Is there an echo in here?

Poppycock, the women have agreed to help us find Caze, Gunnerman and Braggitt.

They have? You mean Major Lady stopped protesting and has given in?

Well, she hasn't exactly given in . . .

. . . but she has stopped protesting

. . . paper roses . . . paper

That's it! Give in. Eleanor Roosevelt's hairdresser is . . .

Wait! Let me turn around and get my note pad.

KRASH!
BASH!
WASH!

As you were saying, Lieutenant . . . Lieutenant! So, you've decided to dummy-up! Then it's going to be Paper Roses again—only this time with a hustle beat!

We had gotten Gunnerman and Cazez—now it would take a more diabolical plan to rescue Braggit.

O.K., we've got Gunnerman and Cazez.

I bet it's gonna take a more diabolical plan to rescue Braggit.

You've been eavesdropping on my narration again!

Intelligence reports say Braggit is hiding in here.

Poppycock, I feel ridiculous!

How selfish! D.J., this is for Braggit!

Why can't you be the girl?

And make a fool of myself in front of the Japanese?! Come off it, D.J.!!!

Her-row, Major. My wife and I were passing honorable home and noticed rovery table. We would rike to buy.

You two are Japanese?

Most certainly. Can't you hear the way I turn L's into R's.

Plus we have other telltale sign.

You take me for dummy. Grab these men.

O.K., Cazez—now!!!

IS DOLLY PARTON SAVED?

BOOM!

Good bombing, Cazez! You really know how to pin point a target.

Our mission was over. Everyone was safe and it was time for the women to leave.

Well, now that mission is over and everyone is safe, I guess it's time for you women to leave.

muffle gloff glig blof.

No need to thank me for anything, Major Lady.

They were gone and soon we would set off on new adventures and begin . . . hey, wait . . . What's going on . . . leave me alone . . . I gotta . . .

That's it, Poppycock! We can't take it anymore.

We figured if this put an end to Major Lady, then maybe it would do the same for your nauseating narrations!

But fellows . . .!!!!

TH'END

Greetings, America! This is ace reporter Nanny Dickering again and I'm at Pepe's Puppy Palace visiting with none other than Mr. Gains Berger, the owner of the largest chain of pet stores in the nation. And why am I here? Well its' obviously because this month

CRACKED INTERVIEWS

THE PET STORE KING

Mr. Berger, the first question I should ask is why call your establishment Pepe's Puppy Palace?

Because if I named it after myself and called it Pepe's Burger Palace, everyone would think that I was a fast-food chain!

Not exactly handsome is he?

No, but WOW can HE KISS

Are all your puppies guaranteed?

Oh yes each puppy is guaranteed to grow into a dog—or your money back!

What about their health. Is each in A-1 shape?

Quite frankly, Nanny, NO! But they do look great, don't they?

Yes, they do. How is that achieved?

Do you have boarding facilities?

Indeed we do. Let me show you a model room.

Come on, stand on your head!

Chicken!!

This is gorgeous! How much does it go for?

$32.50 a night. That includes meals and a color TV!

And all the pets that stay here are kept in a room similar to this?

No Nanny, I said this was a model room...

... this is an actual room!

It's a little crowded, isn't it?

They're just animals. What do they know?

REAL FRIENDLY CHARACTER

Besides dogs, do you sell exotic pets?

Oh yes! To your left is a man-eating Latvian Earwick.

Have you sold many of these?

Not one.

TAKE HOME A LATVIAN EARWICK PET

You see, every time one of our salesmen walks in to wrap up the Earwick...

... it eats him! Right

THIS IS A PET?

What happens if you run out of a pet that a person has come in for?

Our salesmen are instructed to try and push something else like what's happening over there.

... but Mrs. Poindexter, a baby elephant is so much more practical than a hamster. Think of all the extra trunk space you'll have.

But how will he fit into this cage I already bought?

Simple! Just put him on a low-fat peanut diet and shove!

Hello pretty thing. Care to discuss Newton's 8th law?

That parrot has an amazing vocabulary.

I JUST LOVE CHERRY LIPST. I JUST LOVE TUMS. I JUST LOVE.

He should. That's a $1200 tape recorder I had implanted in his chest!

That's so dishonest! And while we're on the subject, how do you handle it when a person is dissatisfied with a pet's purchase?

Our Mr. Smithers there travels about taking care of the problems.

Mr. Smithers, this turtle I bought is dead!

No he isn't—he's just shy.

But he hasn't come out of his shell in over 3 years.

I told you he was shy!

Another service of ours is our pet psychiatrist.

You're kidding!

DOGGIE PSYCHIATRIST

Ma'am, I can't tell you what's wrong with Pierre unless he decides to speak to me.

Oh come now, Pierre and tell the nice doctor what you told mommy.

You know, after observing this, I can't make up my mind.

About what?

About who's crazier—the dogs or the owners!!

Well, while you're deciding that, let me show you my newest innovation — pet insurance! Should the time come for your furry little friend to move on to greener pastures, his life insurance is passed along to one of the children.

You mean his master's son or daughter can collect the insurance?

No, one of the animal's children can!

But animals can't spend money!

I know! That's the beauty of pet insurance. You're always collecting premiums without ever having to pay off!!

CHUCKLE is making very few mistakes because they can't collect a substantial amount of money.

I see that you also sell pythons!

A very big seller.

But aren't these snakes dangerous?

I've never seen one attack another snake.

I think I'll name him Monty.

PYTHON

That man was just severely injured by your python. What are you going to do about it, Mr. Berger?

Think I should give him his money back?

And this is a disgusted Nanny Dickering signing off until next month!

You're right! I'll give him his money back — but only if he still has his receipt!
